FUND MANAGERS COMMENT

In July, trade negotiations on tariffs between the United States and its main partners remained the focus of investor attention. After the United Kingdom in May, the United States reached an agreement with Japan and the European Union introducing, among other things, a 15% tariff on most products exported to the United States. As expected, the ECB and the Fed kept their rates at 2% (deposit facility) and 4,50%, respectively. Press conferences are an opportunity to reaffirm their “data-dependent” approach, leading investors to revise their expectations. At the end of July, investors were only pricing in a 82bp cut by the Federal Reserve and a 13bp cut by the ECB over a 12-month horizon, compared with 115bp and 28bp respectively at the end of June. Against this backdrop, government bond yields rose on both sides of the Atlantic, with Bund and T-Note 10-year yields at 2,70% and 4,37%, up 9bp and 14bp respectively. The rise was more pronounced for short maturities, leading to a flattening of the yield curves. Within the Eurozone, German sovereign yields continued to decline relative to other countries, resulting in a widespread tightening of spreads. On the credit side, credit margins continue to tighten: -14bp for IG credit, -19bp for T2 financial bonds and -26bp for IG corporate hybrids, -37bp for AT1 financial bonds and -42bp for HY credit. All sectors ended the month tighter, with real estate and utilities outperforming, and the automotive sector outperforming on the back of the US trade agreement for Japan and the European Union. Asset class performances were strongly positive thanks to the positive contribution of the spread component and carry, despite a negative interest rate effect: +0,50% for IG credit, 0,75% for T2 financial bonds, +1,20% for IG hybrids, 1,13% for HY corporate and 1,56% for AT1 financials (€). Euro IG primary activity slowed to just under €32 billion, in line with seasonal patterns. The decline was more marked for financials (€12 billion), while corporate issuance continued at a more sustained pace (€19,5 billion). Demand remains solid despite limited or even negative premiums, without necessarily leading to underperformance in the secondary market. The earnings season has begun. So far, second-quarter earnings have confirmed the resilience of the European banking and corporate sectors in an uncertain macroeconomic environment, but with significant dispersion. Spanish, Portuguese and Polish banks performed particularly well, posting record results or close to their best ever levels. Results were positive for utilities, telecoms and the real estate sector. In the capital goods sector, Thales, Alstom and Airbus posted good results. However, the tone was more cautious for automotive companies (Stellantis, Michelin, Volkswagen, Mercedes-Benz, BMW), which are suffering from the impact of US tariffs, weak demand and margin erosion linked to electric vehicles. Results were also weak for the chemicals sector, which issued several profit warnings and revised its guidance downward.

The portfolio’s structure remained unchanged. As a reminder, the subscription period ended on December 29th, 2023.
