Strategic China Panda Fund

The Investment Manager's Report has been compiled with the assistance of the Investment Adviser, LBN Advisers Limited (Discretionary adviser).

FUND PERFORMANCE

The Sub-Fund was down 9.8% (B USD Class) for the period under review, underperforming the MSCI China Index USD NR (the "benchmark") by 4.3%. The Sub-Fund's underweight positioning in finance compared to the benchmark, and overweight positioning in consumer discretionary accounted for the bulk of the underperformance, contributing to 2.2% and 2% of the underperformance respectively.

MARKET OVERVIEW

Chinese equities started the year well, with the excitement around reopening. However, market gain was quickly erased and even turned into loss as the economic recovery started losing momentum after a strong comeback in the first quarter of 2023. Externally, persistent interest rate hikes in the US despite a string of bank failures triggered by the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank also weighed on market sentiment. The MSCI China total return index ended the first half of the year with a 5.5% drop, extending the downward trend after two consecutive years of decline. CSI300 index (tracking A sand B shares) fared better than MSCI China with only a mild retreat of 0.8% over the period. Renminbi depreciated another 5.1% in the period after falling 8.5% in 2022. The weaker than expected economic recovery was the major culprit. Needless to say, defensive sectors like banks and telecoms outperformed while consumer discretionary such as sportswear and catering underperformed the market. EV (electric vehicle) plays also had a strong come back after a significant de-rating in 2022.

The biggest disappointment in the first half of the year was the short-lived economic rebound after reopening. Domestic consumption, the major driver behind the better-than-expected GDP growth in the first quarter, started to slacken in May. In the latter half of that month, many sub-sectors in consumer discretionary like sportswear players and restaurant operators had witnessed slower business momentum. Travel related plays like Macau gaming and online travel platforms were the exception however. The strong travel demand bucked the weak consumption trend, all thanks to relaxation after three years of travel being banned.

There had been high hopes that the government would refocus on supporting the economy after completion of the senior leadership change in March 2023 but so far only piece meal stimulating measures had been put out at best. The 10 basis point cut in lending rates in June was self-explanatory. As the government retained a tight grip on the ethos of "housing is for living, not speculation", the property market recovery lost momentum quickly in the second quarter. Property sales in June even dipped into a decline of 2% year-on-year after strong positive growth in the previous few months.

The e-commerce sector was under pressure as competition heated up again. It all started with Douyin, the Chinese version of TikTok, venturing into food delivery and in-store business, creating head-to-head competition with Meituan. Soon after, JD.COM launched a $10bn subsidy program to counter competition from Pinduoduo. Although quarterly results of e-commerce players were better than expected in general, the sector was still de-rated on fear of margin pressure as a result of intensifying competition.

Elsewhere, the EV sector has seen a strong comeback so far in 2023, with exciting new model launches and recovering car output thanks to normalisation of supply chains, which were disrupted by the regional lockdowns in 2022.

Investment Manager's Report (continued) For the six month period ended 30 June 2023

In general, there were no clear sector trends in the first half of the year. Even performance of reopening trades was mixed, thanks to a lukewarm economic recovery. China was a big underperformer in the region, with disappointing macro and exciting investment opportunities elsewhere, like Japan, drawing funds out of China. This was evidenced by the shrinking daily market turnover to below HKD 100bn in June versus an average of HKD 140bn in January.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

Since it is difficult to predict policy easing in China, the Investment Adviser will avoid cyclicals for now and remain invested in companies with fundamental support. The Sub-Fund remains overweight in Macau gaming which continues to see improved gaming trends month by month. Aviation is another sector that is being monitored and will likely gain focus due to strong demand. The Sub-Fund is also overweight in industrial stocks and brands with high overseas exposure, such as Nexteer, Prada, Haier Smart and JS Global.

The Investment Advisers positioning of being overweight on property has disappointed, due to the weak recovery trend despite a slew of property stimulus implemented in the past 18 months. China Resources Land, one of the largest state-owned enterprises, is the only stock held in the sector, and the investment case is under review.

In the internet space, the Online gaming sector is preferred. The gaming industry is expected to experience growth this year with more online game licenses released. Unlike overseas peers, we have not seen total time spent on online games being affected by re-opening and competition in online gaming remains benign unlike that in e-commerce. Tencent and Netease, the two dominant players in the sector, are well placed to enjoy stable growth and margins.

Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") considerations are integrated in the investment process through a Responsible Investment Policy and the Sub-Fund is classified as an Article 8 fund in accordance with the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ((EU) 2019/2088) (commonly referred to as "SFDR"). Independent ESG information is provided by Sustainalytics, a leading independent ESG and corporate governance research, ratings and analytics firm, and the Investment Adviser takes this information into consideration when deciding to include positions in the portfolio. Ongoing active monitoring of the portfolio is in place to ensure compliance with the Responsible Investment Policy which is available from www.ericsturdza.com.

MARKET OUTLOOK

This is the third year in a row that China has disappointed investors. In 2021, China shocked investors with a crackdown of internet and education sectors. In 2022, China shocked investors with regional lockdowns. So far in 2023, re-opening has only provided a short-lived boost to the economy, yet again another disappointment to the market. Simply put, the three-year long stringent COVID policy and the deteriorating Sino US relations have not only structurally deterred investment demand but also hurt consumer confidence.

After the pent-up demand was absorbed in the first quarter, consumers have turned hesitant again in spending, due to the uncertain macro outlook. The government's policy reaction to tackle an economic downturn has also been disappointing. Total interest rate cuts since 2020 have been less than 1% which, in the opinion of the Investment Adviser, are too small and too slow. Strong fiscal stimulus has also been lacking, with China being half hearted in stimulating the economy, let alone the property sector. The Investment Adviser believes China needs to step up policy easing, especially property supporting measures, as soon as possible in order to save the economy. Although China remains cheap, at 10x 2023 P/E, low compared to the region as well as its historical trading range, without policy support, China will remain a value trap and continues to be a funding source for other markets.

Until the government takes assertive action, the market is likely to trade side-ways. Companies that demonstrate stable earnings, a strong balance sheet and sustainable dividend yield are likely to remain the market favourite. With the interest rate cycle peaking in the US, a strong US dollar trend is coming to an end and Renminbi is expected to stabilize going forward.

That being said, the Investment Adviser continues to favour companies with high export or overseas revenue, rather than those with domestic centric revenue streams, since the Chinese economy is still in the doldrums

Nippon Growth (UCITS) Fund

The Investment Manager's Report has been compiled with the assistance of the Investment Adviser, Evarich Asset Management (Non-discretionary adviser)

FUND PERFORMANCE

The Nippon Growth (UCITS) Fund returned 25.5% (B JPY Class) for the six month period ended 30 June 2023, while the TOPIX TR rose 22.7% over the same period, an outperformance of +2.8%.

The sound outperformance of the Sub-Fund against the index was mainly due to sector positioning, with an overweighting in economic sensitive value sectors such as commerce (mainly trading companies), machinery and steel. The Sub-Fund added three new names (Hankyu Hanshin Holdings, Seiko Group and Takara Holdings) into the portfolio with four stocks (Nippon Yusen, Sumitomo Metal Mining, Toyo Engineering and ENEOS Holdings) sold out. The top five performers among TSE 33 sectors were commerce, steel, machinery, electricals and transport equipment, while the worst five performers were fishery & agriculture, marine transportation, oil, pharmaceuticals and pulp & paper.

MARKET OVERVIEW

The Japanese economy has shown solid growth in the first half of 2023 as COVID-19 has steadily faded away. On 8 May 2023, the Japanese government downgraded its risk classification for COVID-19 to the same level as seasonal influenza, satisfying all conditions for economic reopening. By the end of the period under review, inbound tourists had recovered sharply to 2.07 million people, up 9% month-on-month, the highest level since January 2020. The second estimate for the real GDP growth in the first quarter of 2023 underwent a significant upward revision, reaching an annualized growth rate of + 2.7% compared to the prior quarter. This revision reflects a substantial increase from the initial estimate of +1.6%, and the market forecast of +1.9%. In terms of demand categories, external sectors experienced weakness, with exports declining by 15.9% quarter-on-quarter (annualized) and imports decreasing by 8.9%. On the other hand, domestic demands displayed strength, as evidenced by a 5.6% increase in capex, a 6.3% rise in public works, and a 2.1% growth in consumption. Notably, there was significant nominal GDP growth of +8.3% quarter-on-quarter (annualized). This robust recovery in nominal GDP is expected to contribute to the expansion of tax revenue and corporate profits. Another big event during the period was the conclusion of negotiations of the spring wage hike, resulting in a 3.9% pay increase on average, 1.5 points higher than the previous year's hike and the highest increase in the past 31 years. Due to a labour shortage and persistent high inflation, employers have had to offer a higher basic salary to attract and retain high-quality workers.

This is widely acknowledged in various industries, as Japan's salary level is considered significantly lower than that of major economies, particularly with the weakening yen. As a result, Japanese companies are finding it increasingly difficult to recruit highly skilled workers from international labour markets. 2023 is likely to be the first year where workers can consistently achieve higher salaries over several years, which is expected to contribute to ending deflation, stimulating consumption and improving morale in the workforce. JPY/USD came back to a weakening trend, starting at 131.12 at the beginning of the year, appreciating to 127.23 at one point, however, Mr. Ueda, the new Governor of the Bank of Japan (BoJ), indicated that the monetary easing policy was likely to continue. JPY/USD ended at 144.31 at the end of June.

In this environment, the Japanese stock market showed the strong momentum, although the market temporarily showed a sharp decline in mid-March from the collapse of US regional banks.

On 31 March 2023, the Tokyo Stock Exchange (TSE) announced "proposed measures to raise company awareness and understanding of cost of capital and share prices" and sent out notifications to companies listed on the Prime and Standard Markets. TSE is concerned that at present about 50% of listed companies in the Prime Market and 60% in the Standard Market are less than 8% Return on Equity and below 1x Price-to-Book Ratio. This announcement should be a trigger for investors to increase Japanese equities exposure as companies are expected to increase shareholders return, through dividends and share buy-backs for example. In mid-June 2023, the Nikkei 225 exceeded 33,700 which is the highest level since March 1990.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

The Sub-Fund continues to be overweight in economically sensitive sectors with cheap valuations such as trading companies, banking and steel, while defensive sectors such as foods, pharmaceuticals and utilities, and IT related sectors such as electricals and communications, continue to be underweight compared to the benchmark. Inbound tourism related stocks will also be added to the portfolio.

Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") considerations are integrated in the investment process through a Responsible Investment Policy and the Sub-Fund is classified as an Article 8 fund in accordance with the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ((EU) 2019/2088) (commonly referred to as "SFDR"). Independent ESG information is provided by Sustainalytics, a leading independent ESG and corporate governance research, ratings and analytics firm, and the Investment Adviser takes this information into consideration when deciding to include positions in the portfolio. Ongoing active monitoring of the portfolio is in place to ensure compliance with the Responsible Investment Policy which is available from www.ericsturdza.com.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The Japanese economy is gathering strong momentum. The industrial production in May declined 1.6% for the month, marking the first decline in four months. By goods category, capital goods production (excludes transport equipment), which is closely correlated with GDP capex, increased for the second consecutive month by 1.3% month-on-month. On the other hand, durable goods output dropped sharply by 11.1%, mainly due to a large decline in auto production. That said, the government estimates that industrial production in June would rise 5.6% for the month followed by a 0.6% decline in July. The government maintained its overall assessment of industrial production as "showing signs of a modest recovery".

According to the BoJ's short term economic survey "Tankan", announced on 3 July 2023, the Business Conditions DI in June for large manufacturers improved to +5 from +1 in March, and the Business Conditions DI for large non-manufacturers rose to +23 from +20 in March. The capex plan for the full 2023 year (all industries, including land) was revised up sharply to +13.4% year-on-year, much higher than the +3.2% initially released in March. It is likely that this reflects capex demand for responding to labour shortages accompanying reopening and pent-up demand due to orders building up during the pandemic.

Inflation remains high with the nationwide core CPI (excludes fresh food) in June 2023 hovering at +3.3% year-on-year. On 27-28 July 2023, the BoJ held its monetary policy meeting and decided to adjust the yield curve control. The BoJ has maintained a 10-year Japanese Government Bond yield target of around 0% and a tolerance level of around  $\pm 0.5\%$ , but has raised the rate for fixed-rate purchase operations from +0.5% to +1.0% as the upper bound. This is effectively similar to a rate hike by 0.5 percentage points, but the BoJ did not want the market to interpret the move as the start of monetary tightening.

That said, the change could be interpreted in the market as firstly, the BoJ becoming confident in the outlook of the Japanese economy and that 2% inflation can be achieved in the medium term, actually it revised up its inflation outlook for FY2023 to +2.5% from +1.8% in the April report, and secondly the 145 level on the USD/JPY, which is the level where the BoJ made a currency intervention for the first time in October 2022, could be the bottom for a short term.

The characteristics of the market should change rather drastically with domestic demand related sectors, notably banks leading the rally. The change should be a clear signal that the Japanese economy has entered into a new growth stage.

Technology sectors such as electricals and precision instruments recovered strongly in the first half of 2023, cheered by strong results and forecasts by Nvidia, albeit demands for AI make up only a small portion of total demand for semiconductors. Demands for PC and smart phones continue to decline while production capacity of semiconductors are increasing around the world, in part due to large subsidies by several governments. Tech stocks are expected to drive market turbulence in the next few months, but the negative impact on the Japanese market should be limited. The Investment Adviser continues to hold the view that the TOPIX should target 2500 by the end of 2023.

Evarich Asset Management E.I. Sturdza Strategic Management Limited July 2023

Strategic Europe Quality Fund

The Investment Manager's Report has been compiled with the assistance of the Investment Adviser, Banque Eric Sturdza S.A. (Discretionary adviser).

FUND PERFORMANCE

In the first half of 2023, the Sub-Fund posted a performance of 14.71% (B EUR Class) vs. 11.12% for the MSCI Europe Total Return Index.

Both sector allocation and stock selection contributed positively to relative performance.

The underweighting in Energy was a tailwind in the first half of the year after having been a major drag in 2022. The same is true for the overweight position in Industrials.

From a stock selection perspective, the best performers were found among the Consumer and Industrials holdings.

In the Consumer sector, Adidas rose 40% as the market took comfort in the company's turnaround potential under a new leadership. Bjorn Gulden, the new CEO, has a solid track-record of successful turnarounds at consumer companies such as Pandora and most recently Puma. Campari rose 34% after a lackluster performance last year. Organic growth has proven stronger than anticipated, driven by a sharp rebound in the on-premises channel, a segment to which the company is over indexed, and a growing number of core franchises in Aperitifs (Aperol, Campari, Cinzano) but also Tequila (Espolon) and Whiskey (Wild Turkey). LVMH and Moncler rose 27% and 30% respectively. The luxury sector is set to be a prime beneficiary of China's reopening.

Within Industrial holdings, Schneider (+29%), Air Liquide (+26%), and Saint-Gobain (+25%) rose strongly as the market started to embrace the narrative of mild recession. Whilst weakness in certain end markets is indeed well flagged (e.g Construction or Semi-conductor), those companies' products and services remain instrumental to the energy transition, a secular tailwind.

The largest underperformers included Teleperformance, as the market started to ponder the likelihood of seeing Call centers disrupted by the rise of generative AI. The position was exited at the onset of that debate, not taking the brunt of the stock's fall towards the end of the semester. Rexel and Nexans fell on the back of subdued end markets after a strong start to the 2023 year.

MARKET OVERVIEW

In the first semester of 2023, despite several weakening macro indicators (falling ISM surveys across the world, broad based destocking) and red flags from the bond market (largely inverted yield curve,) an overall strong job market and a resilient consumer helped nurture the narrative of a soft landing. The March turmoil amongst regional banks in the US and the demise of Credit Suisse proved short-term events, with no spillover effects, courtesy of decisive actions taken by central banks. On top of this, falling inflation expectations are seen as reducing the risk of a Central Bank mistake. Whilst core inflation remains high, the thesis of a Federal Reserve pivot is gaining traction, propelling markets to fresh highs.

Performance in certain areas of the market was indeed not short of spectacular: the Nasdaq printed its strongest first half on record (+39%). Stock market performance was heavily polarized though, especially in the US, with a just handful of stocks driving the market.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

The Investment Adviser took advantage of the market's strength to slightly increase the portfolio's defensive exposure. The economic outlook remains uncertain and whilst the market's readiness to brush aside negative news is impressive, it may leave the more cyclical part of the market exposed should its "Goldilocks" scenario described above prove elusive.

With this in mind, positions in Rexel and Nexans were exited and exposure reduced to Cap Gemini and Publicis. Exposure to Staples was increased, adding to Campari and initiating positions in Diageo and L'Oreal. The Investment Adviser also came back to Edenred, having sold the position last year. In the current environment, Edenred evidences a good mix of growth and defensive attributes and, with the stock price having remained relatively static whilst the company has see continued growth since last exited, valuation has become affordable again.

After severe supply chain disruptions driving abnormal demand in certain products, some industries are seeing unparalleled customer and distributor destocking as demand patterns normalize. Whilst short term in nature, the risk of adverse newsflow amid inherently low visibility might weigh on the high rating of certain holdings such as Symrise and Sartorius. These positions were tactically sold in full.

Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") considerations are integrated in the investment process through a Responsible Investment Policy and the Sub-Fund is classified as an Article 8 fund in accordance with the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ((EU) 2019/2088) (commonly referred to as "SFDR"). Independent ESG information is provided by Sustainalytics, a leading independent ESG and corporate governance research, ratings and analytics firm, and the Investment Adviser takes this information into consideration when deciding to include positions in the portfolio. Ongoing active monitoring of the portfolio is in place to ensure compliance with the Responsible Investment Policy which is available from www.ericsturdza.com.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The market took a constructive view of the macroeconomic environment in the first semester. Corporate messaging echoes that stance as short-term margins are being buoyed by delayed price increases and softening input costs.

Yet the demand outlook remains uncertain, and, after a heavily polarized first half performance, valuations are less compelling in certain areas of the market.

The portfolio structure leans towards high quality companies at reasonable valuations and is well suited to the current environment.

Banque Eric Sturdza S.A E.I. Sturdza Strategic Management Limited July 2023

Strategic Global Quality Fund

The Investment Manager's report has been compiled with the assistance of the Investment Adviser, Lofoten Asset Management Limited (Discretionary adviser).

FUND PERFORMANCE

The Sub-Fund was up by 10.5% during the period unfortunately lagging its index by 4.5% - with all of the underperformance arising during May and June. At one stage in April the Sub-Fund was even slightly ahead of its Index so the last two months have been brutal. This was mainly caused by not owning certain stocks (Apple, Nvidia, Tesla in particular) and not necessarily by bad stock selection.

The sector allocation effect was -6.9%, stock selection was +2.1% and the currency effect was +1.05%. At the sector level the overweight (26% versus 9.4%) to consumer staples impacted performance by -2.6% and the underweight (9% versus 19%) to technology was the same, -2.6%. Consumer discretionary underweight allocation (5.9% versus 10.4%) also contributed negatively to performance (-0.78%).

MARKET OVERVIEW

The financial markets never behave in the way one generally expects and this year is so far turning out to be no different. Who would have thought amongst the gloom and doom at the end of 2022 that the equity markets would be up 15.4% (MSCI World), despite the continuing war in Ukraine combined with other macro worries? Europe was up some 13.8%, Japan some 16.8% but the Nasdaq leads, up 39.3% during the first half of the year.

The central banks around the world, with the exception so far of Japan, seem intent on bringing down inflation (for which they are themselves largely to blame) by continuing to raise interest rates steadily. The United States has seen the steepest rise in the federal reserve rate since it started the cycle. The full effects of these interest raises are still to have their effect given the normal 18-24 months lag. However, property markets around the world are showing signs of having rolled over especially in France, Scandinavia, the United Kingdom and the United States as mortgage rates have hit levels which are not sustainable by their owners or prospective buyers. At the macroeconomic level, economies in Europe have slowed (Germany was in recession in the first quarter of the year) but generally have performed better than expected in the last six months mainly due to the fact the feared energy crunch was avoided by strong government action. The consumer in the United States held up better than expected given the Covid stimulus packages have not been fully spent yet, the employment market is strong, while the debate around the debt ceiling in the United States meant that liquidity conditions in the financial markets were much more benign than expected. However, the most important market moving event was the AI frenzy which has developed more recently with investors chasing anything related to the sector.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

The approach of the Sub-Fund is to find business models with visible cash flow and high levels of recurring revenue, via a bottom up stock selection strategy. Accordingly, the sector allocation is a consequence of the investment process rather than a driver of it.

Looking at the top five stocks from an attribution point of view they were Rheinmetall in Germany (+0.94%), SIG in Switzerland (+0.69%), Japan Exchange Group (+0.58%), Air Liquide in France (+0.48%) and Asahi Group in Japan (+0.48%).

Rheinmetall is a huge beneficiary of the terrible war in Ukraine given its range of products which include air defence systems, ammunition, armoured cars and tanks. The Western European political leaders have finally woken up – despite the numerous warnings from defence experts during many years before – and the rearming of countries has started. The Cold War unwind bonanza is now in full reverse.

SIG is a world leader in carton packaging for liquids alongside Tetrapak with a very strong position in milk products but now also increasingly in other forms of liquid. It is set to benefit for many years of the trend away from CO2 intensive products (PET or glass) to move towards more sustainable materials (paperboard). The Japanese market has been strong this year given the improving macro outlook there combined with investors allocating out of China for geopolitical reasons. Japan Exchange does what its name implies and thus benefitted from the flows into the market. Air Liquide performed well given the better than expected macro outlook combined with its positioning in the future hydrogen energy supply chain.

On the negative side, the main detractors were International Flavors & Fragrances Inc (IFF) (-0.47%), Fidelity National Information Services Inc (FIS) (-0.46%) and SAP SE (-0.43%).

IFF is the world leader on the ingredients supply side together with Givaudan, Symrise to name a few. The first quarter results were poor on the back of destocking in the supply chain which meant that the market became worried about the sustainability of the company given the high level of debt post the merger/takeover of the Dupont ingredients business. The recently appointed CEO has not had time yet to deliver upon the combination of synergies as well as margin improvement related to cost reductions. It is expected that the financial health will be helped by the disposal of certain assets. However, given the poor performance in recent times the market is not prepared to give management the benefit of the doubt – it needs to deliver.

FIS suffered from a) the fact that the older technology merchant acquirors are facing a tough competitive situation with pressure on volume growth and margins and b) the fallout from the Silicon Valley Bank as several banks went bankrupt with fears that many more will follow. The market is worried that the core banking business will then be under pressure. The new CEO has indicated a return to the core, and has announced the disposal of the merchant business and focus on efficiencies. It trades around 10x P/E for a steady low single digit top line business which, is too cheap given its strong franchise. SAP remains a top five position in the fund given it is very positioned for the transition of ERP IT from on-premise to cloud format. It should be said that the Sub-Fund owns several companies that are well positioned to benefit from AI applications to their business models – to name a few Adobe, Amazon, Microsoft, Oracle, Reed Elsevier, SAP, Teleperformance and Wolters Kluwer.

During the year, the Investment Adviser carefully considered the incorporation of Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") principles, which are integrated into the investment process through a Responsible Investment Policy. Since 10 March 2021 the Sub-Fund has been classified as an Article 8 fund in accordance with the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ((EU) 2019/2088) (commonly referred to as "SFDR"). Using input from Sustainalytics, a leading independent ESG and corporate governance research, ratings and analytics firm, the Sub-Fund has reduced its investments in companies where ratings showed underlying issues.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The macro outlook remains mixed in the view of the Investment Adviser, given the pressure on companies in terms of costs including energy, interest costs and wages. Last year companies could raise their prices enough to give the appearance of growth at least in nominal terms despite their underlying fundamentals not really going anywhere. If and when the inflation beast is slaughtered then such mirages will disappear. We remain convinced that the relocation of manufacturing chains in order to provide more supply chain security and satisfy ESG requirements, the energy transition and labour shortages will mean that inflationary pressures will stay.

Interest rates are expected to fall and that may indeed be the case if the economy slows dramatically but in the more medium term there is a real risk of classic crowding as government budget deficits remain high resulting in higher demand (and thus interest rates) for funding. If the Federal Reserve really wants to reduce inflation they will need to cause a recession and normally that is not good for equities. Soft landings can, but rarely, happen.

FUND PERFORMANCE

The period under review covers the Sub-Fund's evolution from 1 January 2023 to 30 June 2023 and saw the net asset value per share of the EUR class increase by EUR +26.54 from EUR 1,632.43 to EUR 1,658.97, a total net return of +1.63%. The Sub-Fund's benchmark, the MSCI Europe SMID NR EUR index increased by +6.59% over the same period giving the Sub-Fund a -4.97% relative underperformance.

The +1.63% performance can be broken down to +2.26% of gross portfolio performance and -0.63% of fees and other expenses.

In the first quarter the Sub-Fund reported absolute performance of +5.73% (-1.38% relative) and in the second quarter returned -3.88% absolute performance (-3.40% relative).

The largest individual stock contributors to performance during the period were Bekaert (+1.41% contribution to performance), TeamViewer (+1.26%) and Spie (+0.93%), while the top detractors were Teleperformance (-1.61%), Ipsos (-1.14%) and Byggmax (-0.87%).

Out of the 27 positions held by the Sub-Fund during the period, 18 were profitable and 9 made a loss. The profitable investments contributed +7.93% gross performance (+0.44% on average), whilst the unprofitable positions impacted the gross performance by -5.35% (-0.59% on average). Bekaert, the single largest contributor, represents 18% of the positive gross contribution, whilst Teleperformance, the single largest detractor, represents 30% of the negative gross contribution.

Since inception, on 5 May 2015, the Sub-Fund's performance was +100.52% (+8.91% annualised) and compares favourably versus the benchmark, which reported performance of +25.00% over the same period (+2.77% annualised), translating into a 75.52% outperformance.

MARKET OVERVIEW

The first half of 2023 resulted in several surprises globally; the largest being China's underwhelming reopening and the strength of the Tech sector in the US with the Nasdaq ending up as this year's best-performing market, immediately post the failure of regional banks in the US.

Performance-wise, stock markets throughout the world posted a positive first half of 2023, boosted by only a few names; within technology mostly in the US and luxury in Europe.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

As a truly active and fundamental manager, the Sub-Fund's goal is not to buy the market as a whole, or a representative basket of stocks from it, but to carefully select 25 companies in a universe of 2,000 companies in Europe that are believed to be able to manoeuvre in the current environment, minimising the current downside risk from a cash perspective and benefit from the situation in either the short or long-term.

The positioning of the Sub-Fund is driven by the current macro position., discussed in the Market Outlook section below.

Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") considerations are integrated in the investment process through a Responsible Investment Policy and the Sub-Fund is classified as an Article 8 fund in accordance with the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ((EU) 2019/2088) (commonly referred to as "SFDR"). Independent ESG information is provided by Sustainalytics, a leading independent ESG and corporate governance research, ratings and analytics firm, and the Investment Adviser takes this information into consideration when deciding to include positions in the portfolio. Ongoing active monitoring of the portfolio is in place to ensure compliance with the Responsible Investment Policy which is available from www.ericsturdza.com.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The stock market is extending a consolidation phase as investors are trying to navigate the end of the rate-hiking cycle in the most cautious way possible.

In the Investment Advisers opinion, the market behaviour for now reflects investor fears more than corporate fundamentals, as brilliantly described by the CEO of Apollo Global Management, we are currently in a "non-recession" as the underlying economy remains strong, but financial markets are suffering.

On the corporate side, one can observe that most companies in Europe have posted beats in the earnings season, with cyclicals delivering the bulk of them. Yet, the stock reaction has been muted. Despite earnings resilience, cyclicals have been unable to reverse their underperformance of the last few months, as the focus continues to be on deteriorating manufacturing data.

The overall tone from management teams, when discussed at conferences in early June, was surprisingly similar to what was said a year before at the same events in 2022. On 6 June, for the first day of the Exane CEO Conference, out of thirty large caps corporates, 21 were seen as being 'positive' in tone, with nine 'neutral' and zero 'cautious'.

On the positive side, companies seemed to continue to believe in their ability to pass through price increases. Neutral tones tended to be from corporates still seeing client destocking, or where input cost inflation is remaining higher than expected. On the inflation side, most corporates expect inflation to significantly ease going into the latter half of the year.

This provides an opportunity for the long-term investor to buy great businesses at knock-down valuations. Even if the long-anticipated recession were to materialise, companies have had a lot of time to prepare, adjusting their cost base and strong cash generative business models act as a hedge in such a scenario, as even more cash flow can be produced thanks to reduced capital spending and inflows from working capital.

Strategic Bond Opportunities Fund

The Investment Manager's Report has been compiled with the assistance of the Investment Adviser, Banque Eric Sturdza S.A. (Discretionary adviser).

FUND PERFORMANCE

For the six months ended 30 June 2023, the Sub-Fund had a total return of +1.49% (B USD Class) and since inception (14 December 2018), the performance has reached +4.22%. The year 2023 began with a flying start, with the Sub-Fund delivering +2.36% in January. In a more difficult environment than anticipated in 2022, the Sub-Fund has been stable and resilient. Compared to its peers, the performance has been relatively sound and the risk-adjusted performance has been satisfactory given the feedback of our main shareholders. The Sub-Fund slightly underperformed the composite benchmark (50% Secured Overnight Financing Rate and 50% Bloomberg US Aggregate Government/Credit Total Return Value Unhedged USD) which returned 2.34% in the period.

MARKET OVERVIEW

During the first half of the year, the markets were dominated by inflation and recession fears. On one hand, inflation deceased sharply but not as much as expected by central banks and too slowly. On the other hand, the hawkish monetary policy of the Federal Reserve has risen fears of a hard landing and recession. In addition, in March, the collapse of several regional banks in the US (led by SVB) and Credit Suisse in Europe sent a signal that a credit crunch was possible in the coming months.

In the US, the Federal Reserve has risen its key rates three times in February, March and May but adopted a pause in June. As a result, the Federal Reserve fund rates reached 5%-5.25% at the end of the semester (compared to 4.25%-4.5% at the end of 2022). In addition, the central bank confirmed its objective to continue its Quantitative Tightening (QT) program (i.e. shrinking the size of its balance sheet) despite the temporary abandonment of QT in March due to the collapse of SVB and other regional banks.

Over the period, the 2y US Treasury yield increased from 4.43% to 4.90% (+47bp), the 5y increased from 4.00% to 4.16% (+16bp), the 10y decreased from 3.87% to 3.84% (-3bp) and the 30y from 3.96% to 3.86% (-10bp).

The short end of the US yield curve experienced a bear flattening and long-term yields decreased slightly. By 30 June 2023, the curve was still inverted, the 10-30y being almost flat.

On the credit side, the US corporate CDX index decreased from 82 to 66bp (-16bp). In the hybrid corporate universe, the CS European Corporate Hybrid spread over swaps decreased from 382 to 356bp (-26bp) despite the sharp increase of spreads in the REITS sector. The average spread of hybrids ex-REITS was below 300bp on 30 June 2023.

In emerging markets, the Credit Default Swap Index (CDX) 10 year Emerging Market index fell from 278 to 252bp (-26bp). Many growing uncertainties (both economic and political) continue to weigh on this asset class. China has still been hit by the collapse of some sectors of the economy (property in particular) and by the pursuit of lockdowns due to a zero-Covid policy in the first quarter of 2023.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

The Sub-Fund size has decreased from USD 49.8 million to USD 43.7 million by the end of the first half of the year. In order to achieve NAV appreciation over time, the Sub-Fund's investment strategy is still based on four pillars: US Treasuries, USD High Grade Credit, USD High Quality Emerging markets, and EUR Bonds hedged in USD. The allocation to each pillar evolves over time according to our macro scenario and credit market trends.

The credit and liquidity risks are monitored through an internal credit-scoring model and dedicated liquidity risk analysis tools. The investment strategy implemented in the last few months, of reducing credit risk and replacing it with an increase of duration, came to fruition in terms of relative performance against peers and bond indices. On 30 June 2023 the allocation was:

- USD credits: 49% (v. 40% neutral allocation)
- US Treasuries: 44% (v. 20% neutral allocation)
- USD Emerging Markets: 0% (v.20% neutral allocation)
- EUR hybrids ($ hedged): 6% (v.20% neutral allocation).

The Investment Adviser reduced significantly high beta credits (i.e. EUR hybrids) and did not modify the "0% Emerging markets" policy. At the same time, duration increased to 5.8, which is the highest duration since early 2020, when the Covid crisis resulted in duration climbing above 6.

Short term TIPS (maturing in January 2025) were added to the portfolio during the period, offering a high real yield compared to nominal yields.

Environmental, Social & Governance (ESG) considerations are included in the investment process. ESG scorings and analysis are provided by Sustainalytics and these results are taken into account to invest or to exclude corporate issuers in the portfolio. Regular active monitoring of the portfolio is in place to ensure compliance with the Responsible Investment Policy, available at www.ericsturdza.com. For companies actively transitioning their business models (ex: energy sector), consideration is made for the ESG impacts in their respective sector and their improvements made for the future. At the end of the semester, the Sub-Fund was still rated "4 Globes" by Morningstar, which is a major achievement.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The outlook is still focused on the macroeconomic situation. Inflation does not seem to decrease rapidly but growth is slowing. Recession and credit crunch is a major concern and despite the excellent behavior of the labour market, the first signs of a decline are showing (claims and layoffs for example). The behavior of the Federal Reserve towards rate hikes and Quantitative Tightening is still hawkish until inflation decreases to 2%, which is likely in 2025 but not before. The US central bank has done a tremendous job of fighting inflation. It is close to a historic victory, but paradoxically, has never been as close to a monetary policy mistake.

In the US, the Treasury curve is expected to continue to inverse but as soon as the first signs of a recession appear, the markets will anticipate aggressive rate cuts by the fed, leading to a sharp resteepening of the curve. Duration and positioning on the yield curve continue to be actively managed. The long end of the curve appears to show a sweet spot but attention is on the behaviour of the Bank of Japan - should it abandon its YCC (Yield Curve Control) policy, long term Japanese yields could climb dramatically and Japanese institutional investors would replace their US Treasuries with domestic Japanese Government bonds. This "black swan" could trigger a potential sell-off on long bonds.

As a result, the Investment Adviser believes that the best strategy today is to stay invested in a selection of high-quality corporate bonds for the carry of their spreads and protect the portfolio with higher duration than under normal circumstances, favouring both long term US Treasuries (10y, 20y and 30y) and short term TIPS (i.e. inflation-linked). Increasing the duration slightly (above 6) remains an option, depending on market evolution and central banks behavior (deep recession against mild slowdown, credit crunch, and a monetary policy mistake of the Federal Reserve).

On a longer-term horizon, should spreads widen at a reasonable level, the "0% Emerging Markets" policy could be abandoned. In the current environment and due to very tight spreads, this remains unlikely.

Sturdza Family Fund

The Investment Manager's Report has been compiled with the assistance of the Investment Adviser, Banque Eric Sturdza S.A. (Discretionary adviser).

FUND PERFORMANCE

During the first half of 2023, the Sub-Fund returned +6.28% (SI USD Class) against 9.92% by the Sub-Fund's benchmark (60% MSCI World NR USD, 20% Secured Overnight Financing Rate and 20% Bloomberg US Aggregate Government/Credit Total Return Value Unhedged USD). The largest equity contributor to performance was Meta, followed by Amazon, SAP, Alphabet and Air Liquide. The equity book was the dominant contributor to performance even though the fixed-income book contributed positively with higher interest rates allowing for mark to market pressure from a creep up in the yield curve to be weathered (Fixed-Income book return was 1.54% over the period). On the detractors side, Teleperformance was the largest detractor over the period followed by Centene, Allfunds, IFF and UnitedHealth.

The first half of 2023 surprised many investors including the Investment Adviser: equity returns were strong across the board, decisively supported by the large technology companies, combined with a historical rate curve inversion and slowing, yet resilient, macro indicators. The Sub-Fund's conservative positioning on the equity allocation was a detrimental positioning to overall performance as equities posted a 15.1% rebound (MSCI World net returns in USD), even with overall valuations remaining on the high side of history.

The Investment Adviser continues to believe that the current mix of cyclical risks linked to a deteriorating macroeconomic backdrop, other geopolitical concerns that remain important, all of this coupled with relatively high equity market valuations calls for a cautious approach in line with the investment philosophy. The Sub-Fund returns compared to the benchmark seem underwhelming, as the cautious, capital preservation focus is not being rewarded more clearly in relative numbers today.

MARKET OVERVIEW

The performance in the first half of 2023 was positive in absolute terms, yet underperformed its benchmark. Beyond an underweight in equities compared to the 60/40 benchmark, a key source of underperformance is the extreme concentration of the reference indices, with the top eight contributors of the MSCI world accounting for 8.1% of the 15.1% total performance of the benchmark. In effect, the largest performances have been achieved by the largest weights in the index, creating a stark discrepancy in returns for any strategy which underweights these top index holdings. In the Sub-Fund's case, even for positions held within the Sub-Fund such as Microsoft, the average weight as a % of the equity book (1.85%) is far lower than its average weight in the benchmark (3.76%) leading to underperformance. Overall, the equity book of the fund returned 11.62% gross of fees, showing a good outperformance versus the MSCI World equally weighted index, but below the traditional MSCI World index (15.1%).

Artificial Intelligence was the topic of the semester, and contributes to the above described concentration phenomenon: as the AI craze gathered steam, the market has repriced positively those companies seemingly exposed to this technology and punished those considered at risk of replacement. While the rally in many of the portfolio's holdings is certainly welcome in absolute terms (Adobe, Microsoft, Meta, Oracle, etc), the Sub-Fund was negatively impacted by Teleperformance's significant underperformance linked to this theme. As an outsourcing partner for large corporates, the company is being viewed by the market as an "AI-Loser", pushing its share price to multi-year low. This view is thought to remain too simplistic and evaluate significant upside from current price, but find the share reaction puzzling, and indicative of a new type of "thematic risk" in the market.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

The strategy's aim is to achieve NAV appreciation over time by selecting companies with a positive track record of persistent growth throughout varying cycles, but which have attributes that are underappreciated by the market based on a wide set of fundamental valuation metrics. The strategy also allows for a reduction in the overall portfolio volatility and risk profile with a complimentary selection of fixed income instruments.

The Sub-Fund aims to select companies which exhibit high levels of price and earnings momentum, at prices which are deemed undervalued compared to their growth prospects. A central tenet of the strategy is to focus on the discrepancy between the market's valuation of a company's growth profile and both its actual and potential growth. The process makes use of both quantitative screens and fundamental analyses to select the most attractive companies within the mandate's universe, whilst aiming to maintain a portfolio of at least 45 stocks, which exhibits sectoral diversification. The Sub-Fund can be described as following a bottom-up selection process with top-down-conscious portfolio construction. The strategy's goal is to achieve superior yet stable NAV appreciation over long periods of time by also selecting decorrelated fixed income instruments. By doing so, the overall portfolio risk is reduced and should enable investors to better weather periods of volatility and uncertainty whilst continuously being exposed to best in class growing companies.

Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") considerations are integrated in the investment process through a Responsible Investment Policy and the Sub-Fund is classified as an Article 8 fund in accordance with the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ((EU) 2019/2088) (commonly referred to as "SFDR"). Independent ESG information is provided by Sustainalytics, a leading independent ESG and corporate governance research, ratings and analytics firm, and the Investment Adviser takes this information into consideration when deciding to include positions in the portfolio. Ongoing active monitoring of the portfolio is in place to ensure compliance with the Responsible Investment Policy which is available from www.ericsturdza.com.

MARKET OUTLOOK

In the first half of 2023, various asset classes seemed to send contradictory signals: equities bank on a soft landing of inflation with limited economic damage and focus on the opportunities in AI technology, while the sovereign bond curves and some niches of credit seem to prepare for a harder landing with a record yield inversion and significant spreads and risk aversion in the likes of structured finance and commercial real-estate. Unusually, banking stresses did not tame the rally, nor did the fraught US budget negotiations. On the contrary, the VIX index now sits as the pre-covid low range. However, positioning data has now shifted to a clearly bullish stance, usually a useful contrarian indicator for equities. All in all, the macro picture is challenging to interpret, and therefore the Investment Adviser remains relatively cautious for now – especially as the second quarter earnings publications near. The goal is to remain opportunistic and bottom-up oriented in the equity investments, while trying to build-in profitable buffers on the fixed-income side by locking in high interest rates that will compound over time. Any uptick in volatility could serve the fund well on a medium-term basis by opening up opportunities for more investments and allow the extraction of attractive premiums on option writing strategies, providing the Sub-Fund with disciplined reinvestment mechanisms into quality companies.

Strategic Long Short Fund

The Investment Manager's Report has been compiled with the assistance of the Investment Adviser, Crawford Fund Management, LLC (Discretionary adviser).

FUND PERFORMANCE

The Strategic Long Short Fund launched in November 2022. As at 30 June 2023 the Sub-Fund AUM had reached USD 79m.

The Sub-Fund advanced modestly in the first half of 2023, driven by a positive long book contribution offset by a drag from the put-option portfolio as premium eroded gains in both the young, unproven companies theme as well as the over-leveraged restructuring candidates theme.

Two stocks contributed more than 100 bps each to net performance in during the period. NVE Corp ("NVEC") has long been ahead of its time with spintronics-based products (sensors and couplers) that operate at nano scale with very low energy. NVEC has flown under the radar with relatively little marketing but recently benefited from the chip shortages and supply-chain problems plaguing the industry. Vertically integrated U.S. manufacturing has allowed NVEC to gain market share and new-customers by having products in stock. High incremental profit margins make growth a highly value-adding activity. Atkore ("ATKR") is another well-managed electronics components manufacturer that continues to generate strong cash flow and repurchase substantial stock at prices estimated to be meaningfully below intrinsic value. The trend towards electrification of nearly everything is expected to continue, plus data centre/broadband/solar buildouts, will create more demand for Atkore products.

Only one position, Clearfield ("CLFD"), was a drag of more than 100 bps to net performance over the period. CLFD is the leading provider of fibre management and deployment services to community broadband companies, a secular growth opportunity further enhanced by 5G network deployments in the coming decade. CLFD is run by an excellent operating management team with lots of skin in the game. They shrewdly raised capital recently when the stock was trading at more than double the current price. A position was initiated in CLFD after a nearly 50% decline in the stock and continued to add as the stock moved lower still. In the Investment Adviser's view, the market is taking an overly pessimistic short-term view based on a large (but likely temporary) fluctuation in ordering patterns due to Covid-era demand.

MARKET OVERVIEW

The first half of 2023 witnessed a volatile macroeconomic picture with numerous uncertainties and crosscurrents, from choppy earnings reports and mounting corporate layoffs to bank runs and a Federal Reserve 'pause.' Variation between stocks and sectors was high—the robust headline performance of most major indices belied the fact that a surprisingly large portion of the stock market actually declined in the first half of the year. The Nasdaq and mega-cap stocks led the market, while many of the most speculative stocks that cratered in 2021-22 also rebounded in a powerful 'junk rally' (noting that the 'junk rally' appears typical in magnitude so far, while the mega-cap divergence seems more pronounced than usual). Financial stocks convulsed as three significant banks failed and doubts spread to many others. Economically sensitive companies cooled off in the first quarter as recessionary fears mounted then found new life in the second quarter, on speculation over the end of the US interest rate cycle.

We may not yet be in an official recession, but corporate profits are receding and consumers are under increasing stress. The pace and magnitude of the rise in rates so far this cycle caught many companies and consumers off guard; indeed, most have not experienced such a shock in their memories. Capital projects have become costlier and risker.

Selling cycles have lengthened and business deals are taking longer to close. Levered companies with floating rate debt or near-term maturities are scrambling to cut costs and adjust their businesses to cope. Most consumers are also feeling the compounding impact of inflation over the past few years. Rising mortgage rates plus home price inflation have caused payments for new mortgages to nearly double since 2021. Increased prices for many essentials and the resumption of student loan payments threaten to crowd out discretionary consumer spending. White-collar layoffs continue to hit high-income knowledge workers. The boost to the US consumer from excess Covid savings and massive stimulus has nearly been depleted. Delinquencies are rising at the unsecured and subprime ends of the credit spectrum as inflationary stress increases.

Amidst the turmoil, AI mania has been an excellent distraction/hiding place from the bleakness elsewhere in the market. This hot theme has added fuel to the rally and raised imbedded expectations for a large group of equities that had been nearly abandoned. The key task in the coming years will be to determine what AI can do that is actually valuable. Who will benefit the most, the creators or users of AI? There will likely be a few pockets of revolution but the main impact of AI will be within useful, but more prosaic, tools that automate a wide range of tasks and enhance functionality.

PORTFOLIO STRATEGY

The Sub-Fund closed the period under review with net long exposure of 77% (delta-adjusted), nearly unchanged compared to the beginning of the year. Adjusted for both delta and beta, net exposure is down from 68% at year-end to 62% at 30 June 2023, driven principally by beta of the long book dropping from 0.97 to 0.90. The high volatility and dispersion in the first half of the year provided attractive opportunities for the Sub-Fund to harvest select long positions and redeploy capital to relatively more attractive longs. A substantial number of eroded or expired puts were also replaced, with new options at higher strike prices and longer durations where negative investment theses still warranted it, including many young companies as well as select companies in commercial real estate, banking, consumer finance, and consumer discretionary.

During the period, the Investment Adviser carefully considered the incorporation of Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") principles, which are integrated into the investment process through a Responsible Investment Policy. Since inception the Sub-Fund has been classified as an Article 8 fund in accordance with the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ((EU) 2019/2088) (commonly referred to as "SFDR"). Using input from Sustainalytics, a leading independent ESG and corporate governance research, ratings and analytics firm, the Sub-Fund has reduced its investments in companies where ratings showed underlying issues.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The Investment Adviser expects a volatile second quarter earnings season, given the risks and uncertainties highlighted above. The Investment Adviser believes the impact of higher interest rates is still not yet fully reflected at both the corporate and consumer levels. A crescendo of bankruptcies over the next couple of years continues to be expected and access to capital and credit to get harder in the coming quarters for both businesses and individuals. Consumer sentiment is expected to weaken further as millions of highly paid white-collar workers (with their multiplier economic impact) lose or fear losing earnings power at a time when prices of basic necessities are still inflating.

The portfolio is balanced going into the second half of the year, with compelling opportunities on both sides of the book. Upside to appraised values is well above average in the long book for excellent businesses and management teams (mostly owner-operators).

Many of these longs have lagged or fallen so far that the Investment Adviser believes they could be resilient in a downturn and are strong enough to gain market share and catalyse further value by repurchasing undervalued stock. Some long positions have countercyclical characteristics or are undergoing change that can unlock value. At the same time, the Investment Adviser believes the put portfolio is poised to benefit from rising rates, persistent inflation, consumer recession and the less forgiving capital-raising environment for young cash-burning ventures.

2. Significant accounting policies (continued)

Standards, amendments and interpretations that are effective 1 January 2023 and have been adopted by the Company

Definition of Accounting Estimates - Amendments to IAS 8

In February 2021, the IASB issued amendments to IAS 8, in which it introduced a definition of `accounting estimates'. The amendments clarify the distinction between changes in accounting estimates and changes in accounting policies and the correction of errors. Also, they clarify how entities use measurement techniques and inputs to develop accounting estimates.

The amendments are effective for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023 and apply to changes in accounting policies and changes in accounting estimates that occur on or after the start of that period. Earlier application was permitted as long as this fact is disclosed. The amendments did not to have a material impact on the Company's financial statements.

Disclosure of Accounting Policies - Amendments to IAS 1 and IFRS Practice Statement 2

In February 2021, the IASB issued amendments to IAS 1 and IFRS Practice Statement 2 Making Materiality Judgements, in which it provides guidance and examples to help entities apply materiality judgements to accounting policy disclosures. The amendments aim to help entities provide accounting policy disclosures that are more useful by replacing the requirement for entities to disclose their 'significant' accounting policies with a requirement to disclose their 'material' accounting policies and adding guidance on how entities apply the concept of materiality in making decisions about accounting policy disclosures.

The amendments to IAS 1 are applicable for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023 with earlier application permitted. Since the amendments to the Practice Statement 2 provide non-mandatory guidance on the application of the definition of material to accounting policy information, an effective date for these amendments is not necessary. The amendments did not have a material impact on the Company's financial statements.

Amendments to IAS 1: Classification of Liabilities as Current or Non-current

In January 2020, the IASB issued amendments to paragraphs 69 to 76 of IAS 1 to specify the requirements for classifying liabilities as current or non-current. The amendments clarify:

- What is meant by a right to defer settlement
- That a right to defer must exist at the end of the reporting period
- That classification is unaffected by the likelihood that an entity will exercise its deferral right
- That only if an embedded derivative in a convertible liability is itself an equity instrument would the terms of a liability not impact its classification

The amendments are effective for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023 and must be applied retrospectively. The amendments did not have a material impact on the Company's financial statements.

Standards, amendments and interpretations in issue that are no yet effective that are expected to have a significant impact on the Company.

There are no other standards, interpretations, or amendments to existing standards that are not yet effective and is relevant to the Company's financial statements.

3. Financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss (continued)

Fair Value Measurement

IFRS 13, Fair Value Measurement, requires disclosure of financial instruments based on a fair value hierarchy that prioritises the inputs to valuation techniques used to measure fair value. The hierarchy gives the highest priority to unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities (Level 1 measurements) and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs (Level 3 measurements).

The three levels of the fair value hierarchy are described as follows:

- Level 1 Inputs that reflect unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Company has the ability to access at the measurement date;
- Level 2 Inputs other than quoted prices that are observable for the asset or liability either directly or indirectly, including inputs in markets that are not considered to be active; and
- Level 3 Inputs that are unobservable.

Inputs are used in applying the various valuation techniques and broadly refer to the assumptions that market participants use to make valuation decisions, including assumptions about risk. Inputs may include price information, volatility statistics, specific and broad credit data, liquidity statistics and other factors. A financial instrument's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input that is significant to the fair value measurement. However, the determination of what constitutes "observable" requires significant judgment by the Company. The Company considers observable data to be that market data which is readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable and verifiable, not proprietary and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market. The categorisation of a financial instrument within the hierarchy is based upon the pricing transparency of the instrument and does not necessarily correspond to the Company's perceived risk of that instrument.

Investments

Investments whose values are traded based on quoted market prices in active markets, and are therefore classified within level 1, include active traded listed equities, certain U.S. government and sovereign obligations and certain money market securities. The Company does not adjust the quoted price for such instruments, even in situations where the Company holds a large position and a sale could reasonably impact the quoted price.

Investments that trade in markets that are not considered to be active, but are valued based on quoted market prices, dealer quotations or alternative pricing sources supported by observable inputs are classified within level 2. As level 2 investments include positions that are not traded in active markets and/or are subject to transfer restrictions, valuations may be adjusted to reflect illiquidity and/or non-transferability, which are generally based on available market information

Investments classified within level 3 have significant unobservable inputs, as they trade infrequently or not at all. When observable prices are not available for these securities, the Directors use one or more valuation techniques (e.g. the market approach or the income approach) for which sufficient and reliable data is available. Within level 3, the use of the market approach generally consists of using comparable market transactions, while the use of the income approach generally consists of the net present value of estimated future cash flows, adjusted as appropriate for liquidity, credit, market and/or other risk factors.

Derivative instruments

Derivative instruments can be exchange-traded or privately negotiated over-the-counter ("OTC"). Exchange-traded derivatives, such as futures contracts and exchange traded options contracts, are typically classified within level 1 or level 2 of the fair value hierarchy depending on whether or not they are deemed to be actively traded.

OTC derivatives, such as generic forward contracts, have inputs which can generally be corroborated by market data and are therefore classified within level 2. In instances where models are used, the value of an OTC derivative depends upon the contractual terms of, and specific risks inherent in the instrument as well as the availability and reliability of observable inputs. Such inputs include market prices for reference securities, yield curves, credit curves, measures of volatility, prepayment rates and correlations of such inputs.

The fair value hierarchy for the Company's assets and liabilities not measured at fair value is level 1 for cash and cash equivalents and level 2 for subscriptions receivable, redemptions payable, due to/from broker and short-term receivables and payables. The fair value of these instruments is not disclosed as their carrying value is an approximation of the fair value given the short-term nature of these instruments.

The Performance Fee is calculated based on the performance relative to the benchmark, which means that a Performance Fee is only accrued on a share in respect of the relative outperformance of that share against the benchmark since the previous calculation day (being the day at which a Performance Fee becomes payable), (the "Calculation Day", as defined in the Prospectus).

In the event that shares produce a return that represents a relative underperformance in relation to the benchmark since the previous Calculation Day, no Performance Fee will be accrued in respect of those shares, and no additional Performance Fee will be accrued until those shares have fully recovered both the relative underperformance in relation to the benchmark and also reached a level of relative outperformance since the previous Calculation Day.

A Performance Fee may be paid in times of negative performance, in instances where a share has outperformance the benchmark but overall has negative performance). Further information is available in the Prospectus and related Supplements to each Sub-Fund.

The performance fees for all classes will crystallise on the next 31 December following 12 months since launch.

6. Derivatives

The Company engages in transactions in derivative financial instruments for the purpose of efficient portfolio management. Sub-Fund's may also use derivative financial instruments in order to achieve their investment objective. Such instruments include futures contracts, forward foreign exchange contracts and options contracts. Forward foreign exchange contracts are entered into for speculative purposes or to hedge the Company's currency risk. Futures contracts are entered into for speculative purposes or to hedge the Company's market risk. The derivative counterparty for forward foreign exchange contracts is The Bank of New York Mellon and for options contracts is ADM Investor Services International Limited and BNY Capital Markets.

Forward foreign exchange contracts and futures contracts

Forward foreign exchange contracts and futures are commitments either to purchase or sell a designated financial instrument, currency, commodity or an index at a specified future date for a specified price and may be settled in cash or another financial asset. Forward foreign exchange contracts are individually traded overthe-counter contracts and result in credit exposure to the counterparty.

Forward foreign exchange contracts result in exposure to market risk based on changes in market prices relative to contracted amounts. Market risks arise due to the possible movement in foreign currency exchange rates, indices, and securities' values underlying these instruments. In addition, because of the low margin deposits normally required in relation to notional contract sizes, a high degree of leverage may be typical of a futures or forward trading account. As a result, a relatively small price movement in an underlying of a futures or forward contract may result in substantial losses to the Company. Forward foreign exchange contracts are generally traded over-the-counter and therefore are subject to greater liquidity risk.

If prices fluctuate during a single day's trading beyond those limits, the Company could be prevented from promptly liquidating unfavourable positions and thus could be subject to substantial losses.

Notional amounts are the underlying reference amounts to stock exchange indices, equities and foreign currencies upon which the fair value of the forward foreign exchange and futures contracts traded by the Company are based. While notional amounts do not represent the current fair value and are not necessarily indicative of the future cash flows of the Company's derivative contracts, the underlying price changes in relation to the variables specified by the notional amounts affect the fair value of these derivative financial instruments.

Options contracts

The Company may purchase and sell put and call options through listed exchanges and OTC markets. Options purchased by the Company provide it with the opportunity to purchase or sell the underlying asset at an agreed-upon value either on or before the expiration of the option. The options may be traded on recognised exchanges and OTC markets and are valued by reference to last traded price or quoted prices, respectively.

The Strategic Long Short Fund holds both call and put options. Bought call options are uncovered. Bought put options are not expected to result in the Sub-Fund becoming the owner of a short position in the underlying stock. The Investment Adviser expects to liquidate any 'in-the-money' purchased putoptions prior to expiration. In the event that an 'in-the-money' put option was not liquidated the Investment Adviser would expect to issue no-exercise instructions. All written options are covered. For the period/year ended 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022, the Sub-Fund had no written options and did not hold any short positions in underlying stocks.

Reporting requirement in respect of the Securities Financing Transactions Regulation For the six month period ended 30 June 2023

E.I. Sturdza Funds Plc (the "Company") is subject to the Securities Financing Transactions Regulation (the "SFTR") as at 30 June 2023. The SFTR introduces mandatory reporting for securities financing transactions ("SFTs") and sets minimum disclosure and consent requirements on the re-use of collateral, with the aim of reforming shadow banking and improving transparency in the SFT market. The SFTR was formally adopted by the EU on 25 November 2015 and came into force on 13 January 2017. An SFT consists of any transaction that uses assets belonging to a counterparty to generate financing means and is comprised of the following:

- repurchase transactions;
- securities or commodities lending, securities or commodities borrowing;
- any transaction having an equivalent economic effect, in particular a buy/sell-back or sell/buy-back transaction; and
- margin lending transaction.

Article 2 of the SFTR covers the following entities:

- Counterparties to an SFT that are established:
  - in the EU, including all of its branches irrespective of where they are located (i.e., non-EU branches); or
  - outside the EU if the SFT is concluded in the course of the operations of an EU branch of that counterparty.
- UCITS funds and their management companies irrespective of where they are established;
- AIFMs authorised or registered in accordance under AIFMD irrespective of where their AIFs are established; and
- in relation to the Re-use Obligation only, counterparties established outside the EU, in either of the following circumstances:
  - the re-use is effected in the course of the operations of an EU branch; or
  - the re-use concerns financial instruments provided as collateral by a counterparty established in the EU or an EU branch of a third country entity (i.e. a non-EU entity re-uses an EU entity's collateral).

The SFTR also covers Total Return Swap ("TRS") transactions. The Company did not transact in TRSs during the period.

During the period ended 30 June 2022, the Company on behalf of the Strategic China Panda Fund, Nippon Growth (UCITS) Fund, Strategic Europe Quality Fund, Strategic Global Quality Fund, Strategic European Silver Stars Fund, Sturdza Family Fund and Strategic Long Short Fund entered into securities lending transactions through a securities lending program entered into with The Bank of New York Mellon SA/NV, Dublin Branch (the "Depositary") and The Bank of New York Mellon (the "Bank"), a related party to the Depositary, effective 14 August 2017. The Bank acts as the securities lending agent for the Company. The Company is allowed to lend securities with a value of up to 15% of the net asset value of each Sub-Fund, per borrower. The Company received collateral in the form of government securities, equity securities, certificates of deposit and cash against the loaned securities.

These Settlement Systems may be any securities depository or clearing agency authorised to act as a securities depository or clearing agency. During the period, the Sub-Funds utilised tri-party and bilateral agreements where collaterals held were securities and reinvested cash collateral in overnight reverse repurchase agreements.
