Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results and can be misleading. As the fund is denominated in a currency that may differ than an investor's base currency, changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes. Performance is shown net of fees and expenses for the relevant share class over the reference period. All performance figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and do not take into account the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares, if any. Individual costs are not taken into account and would have a negative impact on the performance. With an investment amount of EUR 1,000 over an investment period of five years, the investment result in the first year would be reduced by the front-end load of up to EUR 50 (5%) as well as by additional individual custody charges. In subsequent years, the investment result would also be reduced by the individual custody account costs incurred. The reference benchmark of this class is used for performance comparison purposes only (dividend reinvested). The funds is actively managed. No benchmark is directly identical to a fund, thus the performance of a benchmark is not a reliable indicator of future performance of the fund to which it is compared. There can be no assurance that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred.

Market review

Global equities continued to recover in June 2025, with the MSCI World Index ending the month up 4.3%. While remaining a laggard, healthcare also started recovering (MSCI World Healthcare up +1.4%) from what had been a significant (perhaps peak) level of fear around US drug pricing reform in May. The Bellevue Healthcare Strategy (LUX) Fund (I-shares: +2.0%, in USD) outperformed its healthcare index benchmark by 58 bps.

US President Trump released an Executive Order (EO) calling for most-favored-nation (MFN) drug pricing on May 12. This called for the HHS to propose drug price targets within 30 days, with the industry being given 180 days to show signs of progress. Alongside this, there remains the 232 investigation on pharmaceuticals related to national security and potential tariffs. We are therefore within the middle of these two processes, with a lack of clear direction at present. The potential for a pilot program around MFN appears to have waned. In addition, we have not seen MFN enter the reconciliation bill (big beautiful bill) negotiations in congress. This lack of information and slowing momentum, has provided a support to pharmaceutical valuations.

Beyond US politics, June was a busy month of healthcare conferences. Early in the month we attended the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO) annual meeting in Chicago. During the meeting we gained a growing picture of the potential new modalities and mechanisms that are emerging in early/mid-stage studies (ADCs, bispecifics etc.). Later in June, we attended the American Diabetes Association (ADA) conference. This year's ADA spotlighted the next generation of obesity and metabolic therapies. Oral GLP-1 alternatives, muscle-sparing regimens, and combination hormone therapies all gained traction, pointing toward a maturing market still rich in unmet needs. Across both therapeutic areas, we have been impressed by the innovation now coming from China, including some of the stocks we hold in our portfolio.

Positioning & outlook

We expect the current uncertainty surrounding US healthcare related policy to moderate as more details emerge. While the EO stated all branded drugs, it is likely that this will need to be narrowed to specific government channels, especially in the context of a pilot study. We also see the potential for the 232 investigation scope to be narrowed, perhaps exclusively in China which do actually hold a national security risk (antibiotics and Ibuprofen, for example). In the coming months, we could see this also acting as a clearing event for the biopharma. We therefore expect the final outcome of MFN and tariffs will be less damaging on future company earnings than feared.

General description

The investment process for the Bellevue Healthcare Strategy (Lux) Fund resembles the rules-based investment process that Bellevue has applied since 2007. In this approach, the 45 most attractive stocks in the healthcare sector worldwide are selected every six months. The Bellevue Healthcare team screens about 600 of the 5000 listed companies in the healthcare sector worldwide based on four quantitative criteria (PEG valuation, price/sales, sales growth and EBITDA/sales) and four qualitative criteria (assessing the company's management, product pipeline, operating risks and country related risks). The most promising stocks from four different regions – Western Europe (10 stocks), North America (15 stocks), Japan/Australia (10 stocks) and emerging markets (10 stocks) – are selected. The weighting per region (North America: 45%, Western Europe: 25%, Japan/Australia: 15%, and emerging markets: 15%) is set at the biannual rebalance. Given no exposure to emerging markets in the MSCI World Healthcare Index, we are inherently overweight this region.

Risk and return profile acc. to SRI

The Fund's investment objective is to generate attractive and competitive long-term capital growth. It is particularly suited to investors with an investment horizon of at least 5 years. The Fund is exposed to the risks typical of equity investments.

We have classified this product as risk class 4 on a scale of 1 to 7, where 4 corresponds to a medium risk class. The risk of potential losses from future performance is classified as medium. In the event of very adverse market conditions, it is possible that the ability to execute your redemption request may be impaired. The calculation of the risk and earnings profile is based on simulated/historical data, which cannot be used as a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The classification of the fund may change in future and does not constitute a guarantee. Even a fund classed in category 1 does not constitute a completely risk-free investment. There can be no guarantee that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred. The overall risk exposure may have a strong impact on any return achieved by the fund or subfund. For further information please refer to the fund prospectus or PRIIP-KID.

Liquidity risk

The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may in certain circumstances reach a relatively low level of liquidity, which can have an impact on the fund's liquidity.

Risk arising from the use of derivatives

The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Currency risks

The fund may invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency. Changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes.

Operational risks and custody risks

The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.

Benefits

- Investments in the 45 most attractive healthcare stocks worldwide.
- Proprietary investment process: Half-yearly company evaluation and rebalancing.
- Underweighting of pharma and US stocks against the relevant healthcare indices.
- Strong focus on quality mid-caps.
- Bellevue – healthcare pioneer since 1993 and today one of the biggest independent investors in the sector in Europe.

Inherent risks

- The fund actively invests in equities. Equities are subject to strong price fluctuations and so are also exposed to the risk of price losses.
- The fund may invest a proportion of its assets in financial instruments that might under certain circumstances have a relatively low level of liquidity, which can in turn affect the fund's liquidity.
- The fund invests in foreign currencies, which means a corresponding degree of currency risk against the reference currency.
- Investing in Emerging Markets entails the additional risk of political and social instability.
- The fund may engage in derivatives transactions. The increased opportunities gained come with an increased risk of losses.

You can find a detailed presentation of the risks faced by this fund in the "Special Investment Risks" section of the sales prospectus.
