Investment / Performance Objectives & policy

The fund mainly invests in US government bonds denominated in US dollar. The fund generally favours direct investment but may at times invest through derivatives. Specifically, the fund normally invests at least 80% of total net assets in debt and debt-related instruments, including money market instruments, issued by the US government and denominated in USD. The credit rating and duration of securities are usually consistent with those of the benchmark. The fund may invest in the following asset classes up to the percentages of total net assets indicated:
- corporate and non-US government debt instruments: 20%
The fund does not invest in asset-backed securities or contingent convertible bonds (coco bonds), but may be indirectly exposed to them (maximum 10% of total net assets). Non-USD investments are hedged to USD.
The fund may use derivatives for reducing risks (hedging) and costs, and to gain additional investment exposure.
This Class of Unit protects you against the fluctuations between the investment currencies and Euro.

Risk and Reward Profile

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 4 years.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.

We have classified this product as 3 out of 7, which is a medium-low risk class.

This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-low level, and poor market conditions are unlikely to impact the capacity to pay you.

For any further details on investment risks, please refer in particular to the Risks section of the Fund's Prospectus.

Investment Manager Commentary

Performance and Investment Choices

In December the performance of the US government bond market was negative by -0.31% in local currency.

During the month, the Federal Reserve delivered a third consecutive 25 bps rate cut, lowering the federal funds target range to 3.50%–3.75%. The FOMC maintained a cautious forward-looking stance, confirming expectations for only one additional rate cut in 2026. Chair Jerome Powell indicated that the current policy stance is sufficiently supportive of the labor market while remaining restrictive enough to keep inflation on a downward path, assuming tariff-related pressures fade. Market expectations for easing in 2026 were revised lower following the meeting. The decision revealed growing internal divisions, with dissents reflecting differing assessments of labor market softening versus persistent inflation risks.

During the month, US macro data remained mixed, highlighting a clear divergence across sectors. Manufacturing activity stayed in contraction, with ISM Manufacturing at 48.2 and the MNI Chicago PMI printing at 43.5, confirming persistent softness in the industrial sector. By contrast, services activity proved resilient, as the ISM Services Index surprised to the upside at 52.6. Labor market conditions were volatile but broadly resilient. Initial jobless claims declined toward year-end, falling below 200k, indicating no sustained deterioration in labor market conditions; the unemployment rate edged up to 4.6%, consistent with gradual normalization. On the inflation and demand side, headline CPI eased to 2.7% y/y, reinforcing the disinflation trend. Retail sales were flat, while consumer confidence remained subdued, reflecting persistent uncertainty around the near-term growth outlook.

Over the month the Treasury curve exhibited a bear steepening movement: the 2yrs yield decreased by 1.5 bps, while the 3yrs yield increased by 5bps. the 5yrs yield moved higher by 13bps; 10yrs and 30yrs yields increased by around 15 bps. The 2yrs and 10yrs benchmark bond closed the month at a level of 3.47% and 4.17%, respectively. The slope of the 2yrs/10yrs yield curve steepened by 16 bps to an absolute value of 68 bps. As far as the EUR/USD exchange rate is concerned, USD depreciated by 1.20% relative to the EUR.

Fund performance was in line with the one posted by its benchmark. Over the month, fund maintained neutral positioning.

Morningstar rating is a quantitative assessment of past performance that takes into account risk and costs imputed. It does not take into account qualitative elements and is calculated on the basis of a (mathematical) formula. The classes are categorized and compared with similar UCITS classes, based on their score and they receive one to five stars. In each category, the top 10% receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% 4 stars, the next 35% 3 stars, the next 22.5% 2 stars, and the last 10% receive 1 star. The rating is calculated monthly on the basis of historical performance over 3, 5 and 10 years and does not take into account the future.
