Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results and can be misleading. As the fund is denominated in a currency that may differ than an investor's base currency, changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes. Performance is shown net of fees and expenses for the relevant share class over the reference period. All performance figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and do not take into account the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares, if any. Individual costs are not taken into account and would have a negative impact on the performance. With an investment amount of EUR 1,000 over an investment period of five years, the investment result in the first year would be reduced by the front-end load of up to EUR 50 (5%) as well as by additional individual custody charges. In subsequent years, the investment result would also be reduced by the individual custody account costs incurred. The reference benchmark of this class is used for performance comparison purposes only (dividend reinvested). The funds is actively managed. No benchmark is directly identical to a fund, thus the performance of a benchmark is not a reliable indicator of future performance of the fund to which it is compared. There can be no assurance that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred.

Market review

Global equity markets fell sharply in March, with the MSCI World Index declining 6.4%, as escalating Middle East tensions weighed on oil prices, inflation expectations, and growth prospects. Healthcare underperformed the broader market, with the MSCI World Health Care Index declining 8.3%. Against this backdrop, the Bellevue Obesity Solutions (Lux) Fund – I shares returned -8.2%, a small outperformance versus its benchmark.

All healthcare subsectors posted negative returns in March, though with notable dispersion. Healthcare IT (-5.5%), biotechnology (-5.8%), and pharmaceuticals were the relative outperformers, albeit pharmaceuticals failed to exhibit their typical defensive characteristics. Life science tools (-7.5%), healthcare services (-9.8%), and medtech (-12.1%) lagged. Declines were broad-based across regions: US (-7.8%), Asia (-8.8%), Europe (-9.8%), and emerging markets (-10.0%).

The month opened with the US attack on Iran, which rapidly led to a closure of the Strait of Hormuz. This sent oil prices up by 60%. The uncertainty on duration and magnitude of the conflict, which increased during the month, weighed on markets, yields (US 10 year +36 bp) and rate cuts (first Fed cut rate repriced from Summer 26 to Autumn 27) in particular. Deteriorating financing prospects and increasing supply chain complexity weighed most on industrial and materials sectors performing most negatively over the month.

The month was shaped by three themes: significant clinical readouts, continued momentum in IgA nephropathy (IgAN), and a reacceleration in M&A activities. Boston Scientific's CHAMPION-AF trial supported the Watchman platform in a broader first-line setting, while United Therapeutics' TETON-1 readout was among the quarter's most consequential pulmonary hypertension catalysts. Johnson & Johnson / Protagonist's Icotyde received FDA approval, and BridgeBio delivered encouraging Phase III data in achondroplasia. In IgAN, Otsuka advanced the sibeprenlimab launch and Vertex reported positive Phase III data for povetacept, reinforcing our conviction that nephrology remains one of the most attractive areas in specialty care. Strategic activity picked up, with Eli Lilly acquiring Centessa, Biogen acquiring Apellis, and Gilead acquiring Arcellx.

Top absolute performers in the fund included Madrigal (+21%; takeover rumors), Protagonist (+15%; FDA approval of Icotyde), and BridgeBio (+12%; strong clinical trial data).

Top relative positive contributors included EssilorLuxottica (not held; +14 bp; -14%; competition concerns), Gilead (not held; +13 bp; -6%), and Cencora (not held; +13 bp; -16%). Top relative negative contributors included Chugai (overweight; -30 bp; -19%; GLP-1 competition concerns), Sandoz (overweight; -19 bp; -13%; strong prior period), and Teva Pharma (overweight; -18 bp; -11%; Middle East conflict).

Positioning & outlook

The near-term backdrop remains uncertain, with elevated oil prices, higher-for-longer rates, and unresolved geopolitical tensions weighing on risk assets broadly. Rate sensitivity and supply chain complexity warrant vigilance, though healthcare's defensive characteristics should provide relative resilience should conditions deteriorate further.

The structural case for healthcare remains intact and increasingly compelling. Regulatory uncertainty has materially eased, valuations remain near decade lows, and biopharma fundamentals continue to stabilize. Healthcare contributes ~18% of US GDP yet represents only ~10% of the S&P 500, a disconnect we expect to narrow over time.

Biotechnology continues to transition toward cash-generative, launch-driven business models, while large-cap pharma faces a biologic patent cliff between 2029 and 2032 and holds over USD 200 bn in acquisition capacity, underpinning a multi-year M&A cycle.

The fund maintains a high-conviction, diversified approach with a focus on obesity and metabolic disorders, positioned to capture the structural recovery and near-term catalyst-driven opportunities.

The calculation of the risk and earnings profile is based on simulated/historical data, which cannot be used as a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The classification of the fund may change in future and does not constitute a guarantee. Even a fund classed in category 1 does not constitute a completely risk-free investment. The overall risk exposure may have a strong impact on any return achieved by the fund or subfund. For further information please refer to the fund prospectus or PRIIP-KID.

The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Currency risks

The fund may invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency. Changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes.

Operational risks and custody risks

The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.

Benefits

- The increasing prevalence of obesity, the numerous associated comorbidities and subsequent medical conditions, and its huge direct and indirect economic burden make obesity very attractive from an investment perspective.
- This mega trend has gained a very visible profile thanks to medical progress (e.g. GLP-1 agonists), high social interest and public campaigns.
- Companies active in this field have above-average growth potential for the above reasons.
- Access to innovative companies across the entire value chain, in nutrition and physical activity-related markets, obesity diagnostics and treatment, and in the treatment of the comorbidities and subsequent medical conditions.
- Bellevue – a pioneer in healthcare investing since 1993 and now one of the largest independent investors in the healthcare space in Europe.

You can find a detailed presentation of the risks faced by this fund in the “Special Investment Risks” section of the sales prospectus.

Inherent risks

- The fund actively invests in equities. Stocks are subject to price fluctuations, so there is a risk of falling prices.
- The investments the fund makes may be denominated in foreign currency, which can entail a foreign-exchange risk relative to the fund’s base currency.
- The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may have relatively low levels of liquidity under certain circumstances, which may then affect the liquidity of the fund’s own shares.
- There are additional risks in the form of political and social unrest when investing in emerging markets.
- The fund may use derivatives. Derivatives offer greater upside potential yet also carry greater downside risk.
