The portfolio will mainly consist of convertible bonds, bonds exchangeable for shares, bonds with share warrants, bonds and negotiable debt securities issued by companies and exchangeable for shares, perpetual preferred securities, bonds and negotiable debt securities issued by companies and financial institutions and by sovereign states, money-market or bond UCITS governed by French law, both compliant and non-compliant with the directive, invested in bonds and other debt securities denominated in euro (maximum 10%), shares resulting from the conversion of one of the types of instruments defined above (maximum 10%).

FUND MANAGERS COMMENT

The portfolio's equity sensitivity was maintained higher than the benchmark during the month and currently stands at 67.5% versus 58.6% for the benchmark. Our equity sensitivity overweight had a positive impact with global equities ending at higher levels. Interest rates moved higher during the period, creating a negative absolute and relative impact. The portfolio tactically traded duration during the period and finished the month with an overweight versus the benchmark, at 2.11 versus 1.81. Credit spreads were moderately tighter over the month, resulting in a positive absolute impact and a more neutral relative impact. Security selections in US technology and materials, Asian semiconductors, and European industrials added to relative performance over the month. Selections in US biotech and Asian airlines detracted from relative performance. Over the month, we decreased exposure to Asian semiconductors and e-commerce while selectively adding to exposure in Asian tech hardware and US software.
